

Symsys 200 (Symbolic Systems in Practice)
Ways to Find Alums to Interview

For Assignment 2, you are asked to interview Symbolic Systems alumni. Here are some suggestions.

1. Look at <http://symsys.stanfordpathways.com>. Many of the alumni featured there were interviewed by previous students taking this course. You should avoid choosing someone who already appears on that site, but there are some alums who have expressed interest there in being interviewed. After creating an account on the site, you can contact them if you are interested in interviewing them.
2. Read through the “Alumni News & Features” section of our program's main website, at <http://symsys.stanford.edu/viewing/collection/20499>. The ones labeled “Interviewed” generally refer to Stanfordpathways interviews, so those should be avoided. Other alums featured in news items, however, are fine to contact, including those listed in “Sym Sys Alums in Higher Education: Faculty/Researchers in 20+ Disciplines” (<http://symsys.stanford.edu/viewing/htmldocument/20710>).
3. Search on the Web for “ “Symbolic Systems” Stanford ”. You should find a number of alums that way.
4. Look at the Symbolic Systems LinkedIn group at <http://www.linkedin.com/e/vgh/1791142/> .
5. If you are looking for an alum with a particular background and cannot find one, talk to/email Todd. I have a list of where many of our alums are currently working. It is confidential, but I can point to particular alums you might want to meet.
