Grading Your Transcript Part II (1/20/2012)

Now go through the courses you have taken again, together with the answers you gave for the first three questions, and do the following:

For each course on your transcript, multiply your ratings for question 1, question 3, and the grade point you received for that course (A=4, B=3, etc.).

Rank order the courses after this process in terms of these three-factor products, and list them in this order.

(a) Note your answer to question 2 for each course as well.

(b) Consider what patterns emerge.

Write up a brief summary. You do not need to include exact grades or scores unless you want to. Do the courses near the top have any features in common? If so, list them. You can do likewise for the lowest courses, and for the rankings just based on each individual factor. Fully responsive answers get full credit (5 points).
