

Stanford Student and Postdoc (Kid's) Journal Club on Condensed Matter Physics

<http://www.stanford.edu/group/cmjc/>

Tuesdays at 12:30 pm in McCullough 3rd-floor conference room.

Since the autumn of 2005, some of us non-tenure-track kids have been getting together for a journal club meeting. Participation is limited to “KIDS ONLY” so that we can ask questions and learn more freely without concerns of exposing ignorance. The meeting provides an excuse to read and learn about current research in condensed matter physics, either within the department or outside. Also the hope is to facilitate communication and exchange of ideas among us. Lastly, we hope to cultivate the important skill of communicating one’s understanding to people who are not necessarily in one’s field. If you are interested, the door is open to all KIDS.

If you would like to receive weekly reminders, please sign up for the cmp-journalclub mailing list through this site:

<https://mailman.stanford.edu/mailman/listinfo/cmp-journalclub>

If you have suggestions, contact the current organizer:
Francoise Kidwingira, kidwingi@stanford.edu

For a calendar of events and more details, see the web site at <http://www.stanford.edu/group/cmjc/>