

Tanya Walker
Conference Coordinator Associate

With over eighteen years of experience at Stanford University, Tanya Walker contributes significantly to the many challenges of meeting planning on the campus. During her eighteen years of service to the university, Tanya has worked with numerous faculty and students by managing customer care and providing assistance to her colleagues, particularly in the School of Engineering.

Tanya is certified as a Group Home Administrator, and she has worked with many developmentally delayed adults and children. In fact, for several years she worked directly with children receiving social services. During more relaxing periods, Tanya enjoys creative writing, her chosen field of study and the field in which she earned her degree.
