Courses given in Modern Thought and Literature have the subject code MTL. For a complete list of subject codes, see Appendix B.

The Program in Modern Thought and Literature is administered through the office of Interdisciplinary Studies in Humanities. The program admits students for the Ph.D. and a very limited number for a coterminal B.A./M.A. Program.

UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAMS

Although Modern Thought and Literature has no formal undergraduate degree granting program, undergraduate students who are interested in completing a major in this field may do so through the undergraduate major in Interdisciplinary Studies in Humanities (see that section of this bulletin). This undergraduate program is designed for students with a strong commitment to interdisciplinary study in the various humanities. Students may devise majors that incorporate modern literature (since the 18th century), cultural history, and critical theory. Students may also create majors in other interdisciplinary concentrations such as Film Studies. For specific course guidelines, see the undergraduate Handbook for the Major in Interdisciplinary Studies in Humanities. Students wishing to declare the major in Interdisciplinary Studies in Humanities must apply for admission to the Humanities Honors Program and for graduation with honors in Humanities.

COTERMINAL BACHELOR'S AND MASTER'S PROGRAM

Each year, one or two undergraduate students, who are exceptionally well prepared in literature and at least one foreign language, and whose undergraduate course work includes a strong interdisciplinary component, may petition to be admitted to the program for the purpose of completing a coterminal M.A. degree. Admission to this program is granted only on condition that in the course of working on their master's degree they do not apply to enter the Ph.D. program in Modern Thought and Literature. The deadline for application is March 1.

To apply, applicants submit:

1. An unofficial grade transcript from AXESS.
2. A "Petition for Admission to the Coterminal Program" from Degree Progress in the Registrar's Office.
3. A statement giving the reasons the student wishes to pursue this program and its place in his or her future plans. This statement should pay particular attention to the reasons why the student could not pursue the studies he or she desires in some other way.
4. A plan of study listing, quarter by quarter, each course by name, units, and instructor to be taken in order to fulfill the requirements for the degree for a total of 45 units, including at least 20 units of advanced work in one literature, and at least 20 units in a coherent interdisciplinary program of courses taken in non-literature departments.
5. A writing sample of critical or analytical prose.
6. Two letters of recommendation from members of the faculty who know the applicant well and who can speak directly to the question of his or her ability to do graduate-level work.

REQUIREMENTS

The candidate for the M.A. must complete at least 45 units of graduate work, to be divided in the following manner:

1. The introductory seminar, MTL 334A, 5 units
2. At least 20 units of advanced course work in literature, to be approved by the director.
3. At least 20 units of course work in a coherent and individually arranged interdisciplinary program, to be approved by the director.

By the end of the course of study, each candidate must also demonstrate a reading knowledge of at least one foreign language.

GRADUATE PROGRAMS

The Ph.D. in Modern Thought and Literature is an interdisciplinary program combining work in modern literary/cultural studies with work in one or more other modern disciplines.

The Ph.D. program is designed specifically for students who have a strong interest in literature or culture, but whose approach or focus requires an interdisciplinary program; for example, students interested in anthropological or philosophical approaches to literature and culture; gender studies; ethnic studies; or in topics such as legal humanities, popular culture, and social or cultural theory.

Modern Thought and Literature is intended for students who plan to teach and write in literature departments or in interdisciplinary programs in the humanities, cultural studies, or humanistic social sciences, or for students intending to formulate cultural policy.

Course work in the program is divided about evenly between advanced courses in literature departments and advanced courses in non-literary departments.

MASTER OF ARTS

The Master of Arts is available to students who are admitted to the doctoral program. Students are not admitted into the program for the purpose of earning a terminal Master of Arts degree. Candidates for the Ph.D., who satisfy the committee of their progress and satisfactorily complete 45 units of course work forming a coherent program of study, may apply for an M.A. in Modern Thought and Literature.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

University requirements for the Ph.D. are discussed in the "Graduate Degrees" section of this bulletin.

A candidate for the Ph.D. degree in Modern Thought and Literature must complete three years (nine quarters) of full-time work, or the equivalent, in graduate study beyond the B.A. degree. He or she is expected to complete at least 18 courses of graduate work in addition to the dissertation. Students may spend one year of graduate study abroad.

Requirements for the Ph.D. in Modern Thought and Literature are:

1. A two-quarter introductory seminar, MTL 334A,B, The Modern Tradition I and II (5 units each, Autumn, Winter) followed by MTL 300, The Modern Thought and Literature Colloquium (1 unit, Spring).
2. A coherent program of eight courses of advanced work in literary studies to be worked out with the adviser, of which at least six must be regularly scheduled courses in literature. Courses in the teaching of composition (ENGLISH 396, 397), ad hoc graduate seminars (MTL 395), research courses (MTL 398), and thesis registration (MTL 802) may not be counted among these six courses; MTL 396L, 397, 399, 802 may not be counted toward these requirements under any circumstances.
3. Eight courses of advanced work in non-literature departments, the core of which is completion of either a departmental minor or an interdepartmental concentration, typically consisting of six courses. Departmental minors are available from the departments of Cultural and Social Anthropology, Art and Art History, Communication, History, Philosophy, Political Science, Religious Studies, and Sociology (see the relevant information in those sections of this bulletin). Approved interdepartmental concentrations have been established in popular culture, ethnic studies, feminist and gender studies, and science and technology studies (specific course requirements are available from the program office). Individually designed concentrations may be approved by petition to the director. In addition to the required six courses in a minor or a concentration, two additional courses from non-literature departments are chosen in consultation with each student's academic adviser. Course restrictions noted above in item 2 also apply.
4. Qualifying Paper: this certifies that students are likely to be able to undertake the quality of research, sustained argumentation, and cogent writing demanded in a doctoral dissertation. The qualifying paper must be a substantial revision of a seminar paper written at Stanford during the first year and should embody a substantial amount of independent research, develop an intellectual argument with significant elements of original thinking, and demonstrate the ability to do interdisciplinary work. Each paper is evaluated by two or three readers (designated before the end of the first year of graduate study), one of whom must be a member of the Committee in Charge. Qualifying papers must be submitted to the program office no later than the end of the third week of the fifth quarter of enrollment, normally, winter of the second year.
5. Teaching, an essential part of the program, is normally undertaken in conjunction with the Department of English. Candidates are required to demonstrate competence in teaching.
6. Students must demonstrate, by the end of the third quarter of the first year, a reading knowledge of one foreign language and, by the beginning of the first quarter of the third year, a reading knowledge of one other foreign language. Reading knowledge means the ability to make a genuine scholarly use of the language: that is, to read prose of ordinary difficulty.
Students may not take the University oral examination before completion of the foreign language requirement.
7. Candidacy: at the end of the second year, students apply for candidacy. The following qualifications are required before candidacy can be certified: the earlier submission of a satisfactory qualifying paper, demonstration of a reading knowledge of one foreign language; satisfactory progress in course work; a list of courses applicable to the degree, distinguishing between courses appropriate to the literary component and courses appropriate to the interdisciplinary component; designation of a departmental minor or an interdisciplinary concentration; and the submission of a statement outlining the scope and coherence of the interdisciplinary component of the program in relation to the literary component and noting the relevance of the course work to that program.

8. Annual Review: the program and progress of each student must be approved by the Committee in Charge at the end of each academic year.
9. University Oral Examination: this examination, covering the student's areas of concentration, normally is taken in the third year of graduate study. It is a two-hour oral examination administered by four faculty members specializing in the student's areas of concentration, and a chair from another department. The exam is based on a substantial reading list prepared by the student in conjunction with the faculty committee and designed to cover the areas of expertise pertinent to the student's dissertation project.
10. Colloquium on the Dissertation Proposal: sometime after the University oral examination, or in conjunction with that examination, the dissertation committee assembles for up to one hour to discuss the dissertation proposal with the student. Prior to this meeting, the student should have consulted each member of the committee to discuss the proposal and compile a bibliography.
11. Dissertation: the fourth and fifth years are devoted to the dissertation, which should be a substantial and original contribution acceptable to the Committee on Modern Thought and Literature. The subject is drawn from the literature of specialization and the area of nonliterary studies.

HUMANITIES

The program participates in the Graduate Program in Humanities leading to a joint Ph.D. degree in Modern Thought and Literature and Humanities. For a description of the Humanities program, see the "Interdisciplinary Studies in Humanities" section of this bulletin.

COURSES

The courses listed below are specifically sponsored by the Program in Modern Thought and Literature or are required for the doctoral program. For literature courses, students should consult the listings of the various literature departments at Stanford. For other offerings, students should consult listings in the individual departments of interest. Consent of instructor is often required.

Students in the doctoral program in Modern Thought and Literature are advised to read through the offerings in the Department of English (or in their foreign literature of choice) as well as offerings of the non-literature departments in which they wish to concentrate: for example, courses dealing with culture listed under Cultural and Social Anthropology, courses dealing with film under Communication or Art and Art History, courses in intellectual and cultural history under History. If the area of nonliterary interest is thematic rather than disciplinary, doctoral students should look under various program listings, such as Feminist Studies, African and African American Studies, or Comparative Studies in Race and Ethnicity.

MTL 120. Deviants in Literature—A psychological approach to interpreting unforgettable literary characters. Authors: Dostoevsky, Kafka, Capote, Conrad, and Albee.

3 units, Win (Van Natta)

MTL 175. Individual Work—For undergraduates only.

2-5 units, any quarter (Staff)

MTL 190B. Boundaries of Disciplines: Literature and Anthropology—(Same as HUMNTIES 190B.) The relationships between literature and anthropology, and their political boundaries. Goal is to establish a framework for understanding disciplinary formations and transformations in their ideological contexts as preparation to interdisciplinary studies by reading anthropological and literary texts.

3-5 units, Win (Ben-zvi)

MTL 190R. Muslims in the European Imaginary: Legal and Pop Cultural Constructions of Contemporary Europe—Legal and cultural texts to understand how Muslims have confirmed and contested European identity. Focus is on contemporary Europe; also the relationships between Europeans and Muslims in the colonies, the Balkans, and inside Europe itself. Postcolonial, feminist legal, and international relations theory. Texts include cartoons, movies, online games, parliamentary debates, and immigration law.

5 units, Spr (Rytönen)

MTL 300. Modern Thought and Literature Colloquium—Required of first-year graduate students in the program; open to all students in the program and to others by consent of instructor. Weekly meeting of students in the program discusses current scholarship and issues. Presentations by affiliated faculty and by student panels.

1-3 units, Spr (Palumbo-Liu)

MTL 334A. The Modern Tradition I—(Same as CASA 333X, COMPLIT 334A.) Preference to first-year graduate students in Modern Thought and Literature and Comparative Literature. Basic texts that have formed the foundation for contemporary cultural and social theory including Marx, Weber, Freud, Durkheim, and Boas.

5 units, Aut (Palumbo-Liu)

MTL 334B. The Modern Tradition II—(Same as COMPLIT 334B, CASA 334X.) Responses, refutations, elaborations, modifications to basic texts in critical theory such as western Marxism, Lacan, Klein, Althusser, Geertz, and postcolonial, postmodern, and feminist theory. Prerequisite: 334A.

5 units, Win (Gupta, Palumbo-Liu)

MTL 390. Qualifying Paper—Preparation and writing of the qualifying paper for the Ph.D. in Modern Thought and Literature.

1-5 units, any quarter (Staff)

MTL 395. Ad Hoc Graduate Seminar—Graduate students (three or more) who wish to study a subject or an area not covered by regular courses and seminars may plan an informal seminar and approach a suitable member of the faculty to supervise it.

1-5 units, any quarter

MTL 396L. Pedagogy Seminar I—(Enroll in ENGLISH 396L.) Required of first-year students.

2 units, Aut (Saldívar, Pellinen-Chavez)

MTL 397. Teaching Praxis—For Modern Thought and Literature doctoral students only. Teaching experience. Consent of program director required.

1-5 units, any quarter (Staff)

MTL 398. Research—Students pursue a special subject of investigation under supervision of a member of the committee or another faculty member. Thesis work is not to be registered under this number.

0-15 units, any quarter (Staff)

MTL 399. Reading for Orals—Reading in preparation for the University Oral Examination.

1-15 units, any quarter

MTL 400. Symposium—Preparation for and participation in the annual student symposium.

1-5 units, Win, Spr (Palumbo-Liu)
