Courses given in Music have the subject code MUSIC. For a complete list of subject codes, see Appendix B.

The Department of Music's aims are to provide specialized training for those who plan careers in music as composers, performers, teachers, and research scholars; and to promote the understanding and enjoyment of music in the University at large through its courses and abundant performance offerings.

Varied opportunities for instrumental and vocal study and performance are available to majors and nonmajors alike. Students wishing to obtain individual instruction, to participate in chamber music, or to play in department ensembles should note that auditions are held during registration week in Autumn Quarter. While there may be openings in some private studios for qualified students during other quarters, it is to the student's advantage to audition in autumn, as most slots are filled for the entire year.

The department is housed in Braun Music Center, Dinkelspiel Auditorium, and The Knoll, including two theaters for concert and recital productions, two rehearsal halls, and a small chamber hall. Pianos, organs, harpsichords, and a variety of early stringed and wind instruments are available for student use. In addition, advanced students may use fine old stringed instruments and bows from the Harry R. Lange Historical Collection (<http://www.stanford.edu/group/Music/Langecol.html>).

The Music Library contains a comprehensive collection of scores, books, and recordings with an emphasis on Western art music. In addition, the Department of Special Collections holds an invaluable collection of musical manuscripts and first and early editions, and the Archive of Recorded Sound has a superb collection of historical recordings of all types.

For more information on the Department of Music, see the Music Department home page at <http://music.stanford.edu>.

The Stanford Center for Computer Research in Music and Acoustics (CCRMA) is a multi-disciplinary facility where composers and researchers work together using computer-based technology both as an artistic medium and as a research tool. Areas of ongoing interest at CCRMA include: composition, applications hardware, applications software, synthesis techniques and algorithms, physical modeling, real-time controllers, signal processing, digital recording and editing, psychoacoustics and musical acoustics, music manuscripting by computer, and real-time applications.

The CCRMA community consists of administrative and technical staff, faculty, research associates, graduate research assistants, graduate and undergraduate students, visiting scholars, visiting researchers and composers, and industrial associates. Center activities include academic courses, seminars, small interest-group meetings, summer workshops, and colloquia. Concerts of computer music are presented several times each year with an annual outdoor computer-music festival in July.

CCRMA houses studios, computing facilities, and a networked system of software that includes programs and tools for editing, viewing, synthesizing, and analyzing sound. For a detailed and up-to-date description of facilities available, see the CCRMA home page at <http://ccrma-www.stanford.edu>.

The Center for Computer-Assisted Research in the Humanities (CCARH), located in Braun Music Center, conducts research focused on constructing computer databases for music and on creating programs that allow student and staff researchers to access, analyze, print, and electronically perform the music. For more information, see the CCARH home page at <http://www.ccarh.org>.

UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAMS BACHELOR OF ARTS

The undergraduate major in Music is built around a series of foundation courses in theory, musicianship, and music history, in addition to performance and the proficiency requirements outlined below. Because of the sequence of courses, it takes more than two years to complete the requirements for the major. Prospective majors are urged to consult the undergraduate student services officer in the department as early as possible in order to plan a program that allows sufficient time for major course work, practice, and University requirements outside the major. Early planning is especially important for students wishing to double-major, for those contemplating overseas study during their undergraduate years, for those wishing to do an in-depth concentration in the music major, and for those with particular musical talents and interests. All required courses for the B.A. in Music and in the Music, Science, and Technology specialization must be taken for a letter grade. Electives may be taken credit/no credit, but any courses taken towards concentration requirements must also carry a letter grade.

1. Students are required to include the following foundation courses in their programs:
 - a) Theory: MUSIC 21, 22, 23
 - b) History: MUSIC 40, 41, 42, and three from the series 140-148 Writing in the Major (WIM) courses (two of which must be taken as 4-unit WIM courses)
 - c) Analysis: MUSIC 121 and two from 122A,B,C

2. Additionally, Music majors must fulfill the following two performance requirements:
 - a) Instruction in instrumental and/or vocal performance: minimum of five quarters, comprising a minimum of 15 units.
 - b) Ensemble: five quarters (5 units minimum) of work in one or more of the department's organizations or chamber groups. MUSIC 156, "sic": Improvisation Collective, and MUSIC 157, Mariachi Band, do not satisfy this requirement. MUSIC 181 may count for up to two of the ensemble-unit requirements for the music major. To fulfill the ensemble requirement, music majors need to participate at least three quarters in the department's traditional "large ensembles" (MUSIC 159-167), with the exception of students whose primary instrument is keyboard or guitar, who need to participate at least one quarter in the ensembles above but who may fulfill the rest of the requirement with chamber music (171).
3. Majors are required to pass a Piano Proficiency examination as a part of the requirements to complete MUSIC 23. Offered separately from the course at the end of the Autumn and Spring quarters or at other times by appointment, it consists of scales and arpeggios, performance of a simple tune (to be set by the examiner), sight reading, and the performance of prepared pieces (consult the Music office for details). Remedial skills are taught in MUSIC 12A,B,C.
4. Majors must also pass an Ear-Training Proficiency examination, which is part of the requirements to complete MUSIC 23. It may be taken by arrangement, demonstrating a student's ability to hear music accurately and to perform it at sight.

RECOMMENDED SCHEDULE FOR THE MUSIC MAJOR

The following sample schedule shows how a student may include substantial work on a major in music while also fulfilling the University General Education Requirements during the freshman and sophomore years. The schedule also includes foreign language study, which is strongly recommended for all music majors and especially for those expecting to continue into graduate work in any area of music.

MUSIC, SCIENCE, AND TECHNOLOGY

The specialization in Music, Science, and Technology is designed for those students with a strong interest in the musical ramifications of rapidly evolving computer technology and digital audio, and in the acoustic and psychoacoustic foundations of music. The program entails a research project under faculty guidance and makes use of the highly multidisciplinary environment at CCRMA. This program can serve as a complementary major to students in the sciences and engineering.

1. Students in the program are required to include the following courses in their studies:
 - a) Theory: 21, 22, 23, 121, 151 (WIM) (4 units each); 150 (3 units); 220A,B,C (4 units each); 250A (4 units)

 - d) Research project: 220D (4 units)
2. Students in Music, Science, and Technology must also pass the Piano and Ear-Training Proficiency examinations required of all Music majors.

MINORS

Minors in Music and in the Music, Science, and Technology specialization provide the student with a core of essential Music courses in the disciplines that establish both a foundation for informed appreciation of music and a basis for more advanced study, should the student wish to pursue it.

CONCENTRATIONS

Concentrations are offered in performance, conducting, composition, or history and theory. In each concentration, 6 additional course units in the area of concentration beyond the basic requirements for the major are required. In addition, each concentrator registers for an independent project (198, 4 units) in the senior year under faculty supervision, leading to a senior recital, a composition, a conducting project, or a senior research paper. Students wishing to pursue the concentration in performance must demonstrate private-lesson-level proficiency in their instrument. Specific guidelines and information on the concentration tracks are available from the Department of Music office.

HONORS PROGRAM

Honors in Music is awarded by the faculty to concentrators who have produced an independent project of exceptional quality and meet certain department standards in musicianship, scholarship, and academic standing. The conferral of honors is done solely through faculty consultation. Students do not petition for honors.

OVERSEAS STUDIES

Courses in Music are often available at Stanford overseas programs, especially in Berlin and Moscow. See the Overseas Studies Program section of this bulletin immediately following this section for this year's listings. Music majors and minors should talk to the Department of Music undergraduate administrator prior to going overseas.

GRADUATE PROGRAMS

University requirements for the M.A., D.M.A., and Ph.D. degrees are described in the "Graduate Degrees" section of this bulletin.

The following statements apply to all the graduate degrees described below, unless otherwise indicated.

Admission—Applicants are required to submit evidence of accomplishment (scores, recordings, and/or research papers, according to the proposed field of concentration) when they return the application form. Applicants should arrange to take the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) well in advance of the December 16 application deadline. All applicants, except those applying for the M.A. in Music, Science, and Technology (M.A./MST), are also required to submit a departmental entrance test in theory and musicianship, which is available from the Music Department. All components of the application are due by December 16. International students whose first language is not English are required to take the TOEFL exam (with certain exceptions: see the University Registrar’s web site at <http://registrar.stanford.edu>).

Department Examinations—All entering graduate students except those in the M.A./MST program are required to take: (1) a diagnostic examination testing the student in theory (counterpoint, harmony, and analysis) and (for musicologists only) the history of Western art music, and (2) a proficiency examination in sight-singing and piano sight-reading. These exams are given at the beginning of study in the department (usually the week before school begins).

None of Stanford’s required undergraduate courses may be credited toward an advanced degree unless specifically required for both degrees. Only work that receives a grade of ‘A,’ ‘B,’ or ‘Satisfactory’ (a passing grade in an instructor-mandated credit/no credit course) in music courses taken as a graduate student is recognized as fulfilling the advanced-degree requirements. Students may need to devote more than the minimum time in residence if preparation for graduate study is inadequate.

MASTER OF ARTS

Residence—A minimum of 45 academic units is required for the master’s degree in Music.

MUSIC

Students in the doctoral programs who enter directly from the bachelor’s level may, upon completion of 45 units and the doctoral qualifying examinations, be recommended for the M.A. degree. The Department of Music does not accept students for study only towards the M.A. degree except in the Music, Science, and Technology program, described below.

Foreign-Language Requirement—Reading knowledge of a language other than English, and the ability to translate into idiomatic English, must be demonstrated in the first quarter of graduate study.

MUSIC, SCIENCE, AND TECHNOLOGY

This is a one-year program of 45 units focusing on the integration of music perception, music-related signal processing and controllers, and synthesis. The program is designed for students having an undergraduate engineering or science degree or a degree that includes course work in engineering mathematics.

DOCTORAL PROGRAMS

Residence—The candidate must complete a minimum of 135 academic units (see Residency under the “Graduate Degrees” section of this bulletin). Doctoral candidates working on Ph.D. dissertations or Doctor of Musical Arts (D.M.A.) final projects that require consultation with faculty members continue enrollment in the University under Terminal Graduate Registration (TGR), after they have reached the required 135 academic units and have completed their Special Area examinations.

Foreign Language Requirement—At the time of advancement to candidacy, all D.M.A. students, and Ph.D. students in the Computer-Based Theory and Acoustics program, are required to have demonstrated a reading knowledge of a language other than English and the ability to translate into idiomatic English. Ph.D. students in Musicology are required to demonstrate proficiency in German and a similar competence in a second language, chosen from French, Italian, or Latin (or, on a case-by-case basis, another language, if it has significant bearing on the candidate’s field of study).

Qualifying Examination—A written and oral examination for admission to candidacy is given just prior to the fourth quarter of residence for D.M.A. students, and Ph.D. students in the Computer-Based Music Theory and Acoustics programs; for Ph.D. students in Musicology, the exams are given just prior to the seventh quarter of residence. This exam tests knowledge of history, theory, repertory, and analysis.

Teaching—All students in the Ph.D. or D.M.A. degree programs, regardless of sources of financial support, are required to complete six quarters of their supervised teaching at half time. Music 280 (given in Spring Quarter) is a required course for Teaching Assistants.

Basic Requirements—Doctoral programs in the Department of Music do not require a master’s degree as a prerequisite. All students entering directly from the bachelor’s degree level are required to take the following course (which is, however, required of all students in musicology, regardless of entering degree level):

Course No. and Subject	Units
200. Graduate Proseminar	4
All doctoral candidates must take:
301A,B,C. Music Analysis: Modal, Tonal, and Post-Tonal	12

DOCTOR OF MUSICAL ARTS IN COMPOSITION

The Doctor of Musical Arts (D.M.A.) degree in Composition is given breadth through collateral studies in other branches of music and in relevant studies outside music as seems desirable.

Examinations—A written Special Area examination in the candidate’s field of concentration, including a final project proposal, is required to be completed during the fourth year of study, no later than the last day of classes in Spring quarter of that year and preferably in Autumn or Winter quarter. A public lecture-demonstration is also required during the last quarter of residence. It should be one hour in length, treating aspects of the final project.

Requirements—Besides those requirements listed above, candidates are expected to produce a number of works demonstrating their ability to compose in a variety of forms and for the common media: vocal, instrumental, and electronic music. If possible, the works submitted are presented in public performance prepared by the composer. Annual progress is reviewed by the composition faculty. The final project in composition is an extended work for instruments, voices, electronic media, or a combination of these. MUSIC 323, Doctoral Seminar in Composition (16 units) is a required course.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

The Ph.D. in Music can be pursued in two concentrations: Musicology or Computer-Based Music Theory and Acoustics.

Examinations—

1. Special Areas: a written and oral examination testing the student’s knowledge of music and research in the student’s field of concentration is completed during the fourth year of study, no later than the last day of classes in Spring Quarter of that year and preferably before Spring Quarter. This includes an oral defense of the dissertation proposal. The examining committee comprises prospective readers of the dissertation.

2. Ph.D. Orals: the University oral examination, taken once the dissertation is substantially underway, is an oral presentation and defense of dissertation research methods and results.
