Courses given in Sociology have the subject code SOC. For a complete list of subject codes, see Appendix.

Sociology seeks to understand all aspects of human social behavior, including the behavior of individuals as well as the social dynamics of small groups, large organizations, communities, institutions, and entire societies. Sociologists are typically motivated both by the desire to better understand the principles of social life and by the conviction that understanding these principles may aid in the formulation of enlightened and effective social policy. Sociology provides an intellectual background for students considering careers in the professions or business. Students may pursue degrees in sociology at the bachelor's, master's, or doctoral levels. The department organizes its courses by fields of study to assist students in tailoring their education and research to their academic interests and career goals.

FIELDS OF STUDY

Organizations, Business, and the Economy—Focus is on the arrangements which societies construct for the provision of material goods or services. A formal organization which provides goods or services for profit and sells them through a market is called a business, and the economic system is capitalism. Social needs are also met through government and not-for-profit organizations, such as garden clubs, hospitals, prisons, and the Red Cross; some private and social needs are met outside of organizations, such as health care provided by family members and exchange of favors among friends. Courses stress the factors that determine whether needs that people define are met through markets or non-market allocation, through organizations, or by other means. They also investigate the environmental and technical factors that shape organization structure, the determinants of how efficiently organizations operate, and the interpersonal processes that shape individual behavior within organizations. Careers related to this field include management and administration in business or public settings, management consulting and analysis, and legal studies related to corporations, organizations, and business.

Race and Ethnic Relations—Focus is on issues surrounding the emergence, persistence, and dynamics of conflict and cooperation among race and ethnic groups in the United States and elsewhere. Course topics include racial identity, sources of prejudice and hostility, emergence of minority rights movements, indigenous peoples' movements, ethnic genocide, ethnic collective violence, and cooperation among groups.

Social Movements, Comparative Politics, and Social Change—Focus is on the emergence, reproduction, and change of political systems and institutions, especially on why and how different political systems and social movements appear in different times and places, and how differences in political regimes and economic systems influence attempts to change these systems. The origins and significance of national and transnational social movements, transition to democracy, including revolution, nationalism, and other forms of collective action, in creating and sustaining these changes analyzed across countries and over time. Careers that are relevant to this field include law, public policy, government service, nonprofit and international nongovernmental organizations, business organizations (especially those with international interests), consulting, and managerial jobs.

Social Psychology and Interpersonal Processes—Focus is on the social organization of individual identity, beliefs, and behavior, and upon social structures and processes which emerge in and define interpersonal interactions. Processes studied include social acceptance and competition for prestige and status, the generation of power differences, the development of intimacy bonds, the formation of expectation states which govern performance in task oriented groups, and social pressures to constrain deviance. Foundation courses emphasize the effect of social processes on individual behavior and the analysis of group processes. This field provides training for careers with a significant interpersonal component, including advertising and marketing, business, education, law, management, medicine and health, or social work.

Social Stratification and Inequality—Focus is on forms of social inequality, including fields such as: the shape and nature of social inequalities; competition for power; allocation of privilege; production and reproduction of social cleavages; and consequences of class, race, and gender for outcomes such as attitudes, political behavior, and lifestyles. Many courses emphasize changes in the structure of social inequalities over time, and the processes which produce similarities or differences in stratification across nations. Topics include educational inequality, employment history, gender differences, income distributions, poverty, race, and ethnic relations, social mobility, and status attainment. Careers related to this field include administration, advertising, education, foreign service, journalism, industrial relations, law, management consulting, market research, public policy, and social service.

UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAMS

The department offers two options leading to the B.A. degree: the general Sociology major and the Sociology major with a field of study. The general major consists of a core curriculum plus elective courses intended to provide breadth of exposure to the variety of areas encompassed by sociology. The major with a field of study consists of a core curriculum plus a concentrated set of courses in one specialized area of sociology.

To graduate with a B.A. in Sociology, students must complete a minimum of 65 units of course work in the major. Units applied to the major must be taken for a letter grade (except for SOC 190-193) and a grade point average (GPA) of 2.0 (C) or better must be achieved. Related course work from other departments may fulfill part of this requirement; such work must be pre-approved by the Sociology student services office and a faculty adviser and may not exceed 15 units.

CORE CURRICULUM FOR ALL MAJORS

Students are required to complete a minimum of 45 units of core and foundation course work as detailed below.

CORE COURSES REQUIRED FOR THE MAJOR

The following core courses (30 units) are required of majors. It is recommended that students complete SOC 181B, SOC 180A, and SOC 180B in this order.

1. SOC 1. Introduction to Sociology. Students should take this course early in their program.
2. SOC 170. Classics of Modern Social Theory.
3. SOC 181B. Sociological Methods: Statistics, or another introductory statistics course such as STATS 60, PSYCH 10, or equivalent.
4. SOC 180A. Foundations of Social Research

5. SOC 180B. Evaluation of Evidence
6. SOC 200. Junior/Senior Seminar for Majors. It is recommended that students take this course in Spring Quarter of the junior year or Autumn Quarter of the senior year. This course fulfills the Writing in the Major (WIM) requirement. Students considering honors are encouraged to enroll in SOC 202, Preparation for Honors Thesis, in the junior year; see "Honors Program" below.

FOUNDATION COURSES REQUIRED FOR THE MAJOR

In addition to core courses, students pursuing the B.A. in Sociology must complete at least three foundation courses (15 units). To ensure breadth of course work, each foundation course must represent a different field of study. For detailed information about Sociology concentration areas, see section on Fields of study (above). Foundation courses, classified by field of study, are as follows:

1. Organizations, Business, and the Economy: SOC 114 or 160
2. Race and Ethnic Relations: SOC 145 or 147A or 148
3. Social Movements, Comparative Politics, and Social Change: SOC 110 or 118 or 130
4. Social Psychology and Interpersonal Processes: SOC 120 or 121
5. Social Stratification and Inequality: SOC 140

GENERAL SOCIOLOGY MAJOR

To declare a major in Sociology, students must email the Sociology student services office once they have declared in Axess; see <http://sociology.stanford.edu> for contact information. It is recommended that new majors schedule a meeting with their assigned faculty adviser promptly after declaring the major.

In addition to the 45 units required in core and foundation course work, students pursuing the general Sociology major must complete 20 elective units of Sociology course work. Students may choose their elective courses according to personal interest; however, students are encouraged to complete some course work at the 200-level. Sociology majors are encouraged to participate in directed research or undertake independent research with Sociology faculty. Students who wish to engage in more in-depth study in a specific area may do so by declaring a field of study.

SOCIOLOGY MAJOR WITH FIELD OF STUDY

The Sociology major with a field of study allows students to pursue a more focused program in one of five fields of study. To complete the requirements for the B.A. degree in Sociology with a field of study, a student must complete all core and foundation course work requirements for the major plus 20 units of course work in the chosen field of study. At least one foundation course must be in the declared field of study (see above) and students are encouraged to take as many foundation courses within their field of study as possible. Sociology courses are listed by field of study in this bulletin. Fields of study are declared on Axess; students must also submit a Field of Study Declaration form to the Sociology student services office by the end of the first quarter of the senior year. Interested students should contact the Sociology student services office for additional information or to request a concentration declaration form. Fields of study are noted on the transcript; they do not appear on the diploma.

MINOR

Students must complete a minimum of 35 units in Sociology for the minor. Courses must be taken for a letter grade, and a minimum grade point average (GPA) of 2.0 (C) must be achieved. Students are encouraged to complete a course in sociological theory, such as SOC 170, and to obtain exposure to one of the fields of study. Students who wish to declare a minor in Sociology must do so no later than the deadline for their application to graduate.

Course requirements for a minor in Sociology are as follows:

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| SOC 1. Introduction to Sociology   | Units5 |
| SOC 180A. Foundations of Social Research,and/or SOC 180B. Evaluation of Evidence | 5          |
| Two foundation courses; see foundation courses required for themajor above       | 10         |
| Additional course work in the department (100- or 200-level courses)                 | 15         |
| Total course work required   | 35         |

HONORS PROGRAM

Sociology majors who wish to complete an independent scholarly project under the direction of a faculty member are encouraged to apply for admission to the department's honors program. Admission to the program requires a grade point average (GPA) of 3.5 or higher in courses taken within the major, and an overall GPA of 3.3 (B+) or higher in all undergraduate course work. Applicants are required to identify a Sociology faculty member to advise on the research and writing of the essay. With the approval of the director of the undergraduate studies committee, students may work with faculty advisers in other departments.

The honors project is typically initiated when a student enrolls in SOC 202, Preparation for Honors Thesis, or SOC 200, Junior/Senior Seminar. Students undertaking an honors project are encouraged to enroll in SOC 202 or 200 in the junior year. Students begin designing their honors project in connection with this seminar and in consultation with the seminar leader. If the student is admitted to the program, the honors project is completed during the senior year.

To apply to the honors program, students must complete the application form available from the Sociology student services office or from the department's web site. This form requires the faculty adviser's endorsement, a brief description of the proposed project, and a copy of the student's unofficial undergraduate transcript. Applicants must submit the completed application to the Sociology student services office no later than the fourth quarter before graduation, typically Spring Quarter of the junior year.

Honors students may earn up to 12 independent study units for work leading to completion of the required honors thesis, excluding units associated with the Junior/Senior Seminar. Completion of honors in Sociology requires: (1) completion of all requirements for the major; and (2) completion of a thesis of honors quality (a grade of 'A-' or higher). The thesis is due on or before the beginning of the End-Quarter period in the student's final quarter before graduating. If the thesis adviser is a faculty member outside the department, the thesis must be submitted to both that sponsor and to the Sociology student services office, who coordinates appointment of a departmental reader to evaluate the paper. Both the honors adviser and the reader must agree that the paper merits honors. In every case, two copies of the final paper must be submitted; one is retained by the department and becomes a part of the department's permanent collection. If a grade of 'A-' is not earned, the thesis credit counts toward meeting the standard major requirements.

GRADUATE PROGRAMS

MASTER OF ARTS

The Department of Sociology offers an M.A. degree only to students concurrently enrolled at Stanford. General University requirements for the master's degree are described in the "Graduate Degrees" section of this bulletin. The department does not have a terminal M.A. program for external applicants.

COTERMINAL M.A.

Stanford undergraduates, regardless of undergraduate major, who wish to pursue an M.A. in Sociology may apply for the coterminal master's program. The coterminal M.A. in Sociology is a flexible, self-designed program. Most students complete their M.A. in a fifth year at Stanford; occasionally students are able to complete their B.A. and coterminal M.A. in the fourth year. Typically, undergraduates apply in Autumn or Winter Quarter of their senior year.

Application and admission—Undergraduates must be admitted to the program and enrolled as a graduate student for at least one quarter prior to their B.A. conferral. A cumulative GPA of at least 3.5 in previous undergraduate work is required for admission. It is recommended that applicants have completed at least one Sociology course at the 100 level with a grade of 'B' or better. GRE test scores are not required. The department accepts applications the last day of classes each quarter. For the 2007-08 academic year, quarterly application deadlines are: Autumn, December 7; Winter, March 14; Spring, June 4; Summer, August 14. All application materials are submitted directly to the Sociology graduate student services office. Most applicants choose a field of study to focus their sociological studies; see “Fields of Study” above. To apply for admission to the Sociology coterminal M.A. program, students should submit the coterminal application and the following: (1) a 2-3 page statement of purpose stating the applicant’s field of study; (2) a preliminary program proposal that specifies at least 45 units of course work relevant to the degree program with at least 35 units in Sociology; (3) a current unofficial undergraduate transcript; and (4) two letters of recommendation from Stanford faculty familiar with the student’s academic work. The department does not fund coterminal M.A. students.

Program requirements—Coterminal M.A. students are required to take 45 units of course work during their graduate career; 35 of these units must be in Sociology courses. All units for the coterminal M.A. must be taken at or above the 100 level; advanced-level course work is encouraged and a minimum of 20 units must be taken at the 200 level. Students with a field of study must complete 20 units of course work in the field of study, including at least one foundation course from their field of study; see “Core Curriculum for Majors” above. Sociology courses are listed by field of study in this bulletin. Students who want to take courses outside the department must seek prior approval from the Sociology student services office; coterminal master’s students are limited to 10 units from outside of the department. Students may transfer a maximum of 10 units from their undergraduate career; to be eligible for transfer, courses must have been taken in the two quarters preceding admission to the M.A. program. All units applied to the coterminal master’s degree must be taken for a letter grade and an overall grade point average (GPA) of 3.0 (B) or better is required for the degree. Because research methods are an important component of graduate training in the social sciences, coterminal students are encouraged to take SOC 180A, Foundations of Social Research, and 180B, Evaluation of Evidence, in sequence when possible. These methods courses provide skills for research opportunities within the department and in academic or professional careers. Coterminal M.A. students should meet with their assigned faculty adviser upon acceptance to the program.

For University coterminal degree program rules and University application forms, see <http://registrar.stanford.edu/pdf/CotermApplic.pdf>.

M.A. FOR CURRENT GRADUATE STUDENTS

The M.A. degree in Sociology is available to current Ph.D. candidates in Sociology and to students in advanced degree programs (Ph.D., J.D., M.D.) from other Stanford departments and schools. Sociology Ph.D.s typically receive their M.A. in their second or third year of graduate study. Students must complete a minimum of 45 units of Sociology course work with a grade point average (GPA) of 3.0 (B) or better. All 45 units must be taken in courses taught by Sociology faculty and must be taken for a letter grade if possible. Research and directed reading courses are acceptable, but are limited to 15 units and must be approved in advance. Interested students should contact the Sociology student services office for additional information and approval of programs. University regulations pertaining to the M.A. are listed in the “Graduate Degrees” section of this bulletin. Students are not expected to choose a field of study, but may do so if desired. No thesis is required. While formal application to the M.A. program is not required, applicants from outside of the Sociology department must submit: (1) a completed Graduate Authorization Petition form (available from the Office of the University Registrar); (2) a completed Program Proposal for an M.A. form (available from the Office of the University Registrar); and (3) a short statement of purpose to the Sociology student services office.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

The Ph.D. curriculum and degree requirements are designed to provide students with the knowledge and skills to become proficient scholars and teachers. Doctoral students in the department must take required courses for a letter grade if available and are expected to earn a grade of ‘B+’ in each course. Any grade of ‘B’ or below is considered to be less than satisfactory.

Students must complete the following department requirements for the Ph.D. degree in Sociology:

1. Students must enroll in SOC 305, Graduate Proseminar, in Autumn Quarter of the first year; the course provides an introduction and orientation to the field of sociology, and the department and faculty. One unit of credit is given for this course; grading is on a satisfactory/no credit basis.

2. Students must complete three quarters of research experience, working under the supervision of one or more faculty members, including regular, emeritus, and affiliated faculty. The experience may involve paid work as a research assistant (RA), or unpaid work as a research apprentice. With prior approval, this requirement may be met through work on research projects conducted outside the department or University. It is recommended that students complete their research requirements early in their graduate program; the requirement must be completed by the end of the fourth year of residency.
3. Students must complete three quarters of teaching apprenticeship in departmental courses, or in other courses by approval. Work as either a teaching assistant (TA) under the supervision of a faculty member or as a teaching fellow (TF) fulfills this requirement. Students are required to take SOC 300, Workshop: Teaching Development, in Spring Quarter of the first year. In addition, students are encouraged to take advantage of department and University teacher training programs. Students for whom English is a second language are expected to acquire sufficient facility in English to be an effective teacher.
4. Students must complete four broad survey courses to demonstrate command of a range of sociological literatures. Each year the department specifies which courses meet this requirement, and undertakes to ensure that an adequate selection of such courses is offered. A list of courses that fulfill this requirement is listed in the requirements section below. Students should consult with their adviser to ensure that the combination of courses chosen to meet this requirement exhibits sufficient breadth. This requirement is normally completed by the end of the second year of residency and must be met by the end of the third year of residency.
5. Students must take one course in classical sociological theory (SOC 370A or B, or equivalent), and one course on the development of theory and research design (SOC 372 or equivalent). It is recommended that students complete SOC 370A and B, although only one of these courses is formally required.
6. Students must complete the series of required research methods courses listed in the requirements section below. Students with little background in statistics are encouraged to take SOC 281B or equivalent.
7. Beginning in year two, doctoral students are required to enroll in at least one workshop each quarter. Due to unit constraints, students may petition the Sociology student services office to attend a workshop without enrolling; such attendance is not noted on the transcript.
8. Students must complete a paper in the second year of residency on any sociological topic; it may address theoretical, empirical, or methodological issues. The paper is expected to reflect original work and is considered an important piece of evidence in the decision to advance to candidacy. A two-person committee that includes the primary adviser evaluates the paper. Although the reading committee is usually comprised of two regular faculty members in the department, emeritus and affiliated faculty may also serve as readers. The two readers of the second-year paper committee provide a review that speaks to: (1) whether the paper is publishable; and (2) what types of revisions, insofar as the paper is publishable, the student should pursue to ready the paper for publication. These comments are shared with the Director of Graduate Studies. Additionally, the committee meets with the student in June of the second year to discuss these reviews. To ensure that students are making adequate progress on their paper, students are required to provide a first draft of the paper to readers by April 1. The final deadline for paper submission is May 15. This deadline applies to students who entered the department in 2006-07 and later.
9. Students are required to present at least two papers at a major professional meeting in their first five years of graduate study.
10. Students must prepare a dissertation prospectus and pass the University oral examination. The oral exam is intended to evaluate the dissertation prospectus or a partial draft of the dissertation and to assess the student’s knowledge of the theory and research in the area in which the project intends to contribute. This requirement must be completed by December 1 of the fourth year of residency.

11. Each student must complete a doctoral dissertation. At the choice of the student, and in consultation with the adviser, the dissertation requirement may be met either by submitting the standard book-style document or by submitting three independent papers. The latter papers may address the same topic, but should be written as stand-alone, single-authored papers in standard journal format. None of these papers may overlap substantially with the second-year paper or with one another. The main criterion in judging substantial overlap is whether any standard journal, such as The American Journal of Sociology, would regard the papers as too similar to publish both. The dissertation must be submitted to all committee members at least 30 days in advance of the filing deadline. Assessment of satisfactory completion is determined by the student's doctoral committee members. Students are invited to present their dissertation findings at an informal department colloquium.

The faculty is responsible for providing students with timely and constructive feedback on their progress toward the Ph.D. In order to evaluate student progress and to identify potential problem areas, the department's faculty reviews the academic progress of each first-year student at the beginning of Winter and Spring quarters and again at the end of the academic year. The first two reviews are primarily intended to identify developing problems that could impede progress. In most cases, students are simply given constructive feedback, but if more serious concerns warrant, a student may be placed on probation with specific guidelines for addressing the problems detected. The review at the end of Spring Quarter is more thorough; each student's performance during the first year is reviewed and discussed. Possible outcomes of the spring review include: (1) continuation of the student in good standing, or (2) placing the student on probation, with specific guidelines for the period of probation and the steps to be taken in order to be returned to good standing. For students on probation at this point (or at any other subsequent points), possible outcomes of a review include: (1) restoration to good standing; (2) continued probation, again with guidelines for necessary remedial steps; or (3) termination from the program. Students leaving the program at the end of the first year are usually allowed to complete the requirements to receive an M.A. degree, if this does not involve additional residence or financial support. All students are given feedback from their advisers at the end of their first year of graduate work, helping them to identify areas of strengths and potential weakness.

At the end of the second year of residency, the faculty again review the progress of all doctoral students in the program. Students who are performing well, as indicated by their course work, teaching and research apprenticeship performance, and second-year paper, are advanced to candidacy. This step implies that the student has demonstrated the relevant qualities required for successful completion of the Ph.D. Future evaluations are based on the satisfactory completion of specific remaining department and University requirements. Students who are still on probation at this stage may be (1) advanced to candidacy; (2) retained on probation with specification of the steps still required to be removed from this status; or (3) terminated from the program.

At any point during the degree program, evidence that a student is performing at a less than satisfactory level may be cause for a formal academic review of that student.

REQUIREMENTS

SURVEY COURSES

Students must complete four courses from an approved list. This list is updated and circulated to students at the start of each academic year. Note: class offerings rotate; not all approved survey courses are offered every year. The following courses typically fulfill the survey course requirement:

- 308. Social Demography
- 310. Political Sociology
- 314. Economic Sociology
- 316. Historical and Comparative Sociology
- 318. Social Movements and Collective Action
- 320. Foundations of Social Psychology
- 322. Social Interaction, Social Structure, and Social Exchange
- 340. Social Stratification
- 342B. Gender and Social Structure

- 345. Comparative Race and Ethnic Relations
- 360. Foundations of Organizational Sociology
- 363A. Seminar on Organizational Theory

RESEARCH METHODS

The following course requirements apply to students who entered the Ph.D program in 2005-06 or later. Students are also expected to complete one elective from a list of approved courses that is updated and circulated at the start of each academic year. Students are required to enroll in 384, Sociology Methodology IV: New Models and Methods, in their first or second year of the program; this course is offered in alternate years.

- 281B. Statistics (not required but recommended for students with little statistical background)
- 381. Sociological Methodology I: Introduction
- 382. Sociological Methodology II: The General Linear Model
- 383. Sociological Methodology III: Advanced Models for Discrete Outcomes
- 384. Sociology Methodology IV: New Models and Methods
- 385A. Research Practicum I
- 385B. Research Practicum II

The following course requirements apply to students who entered the Ph.D program in 2004-05 or earlier.

- 281B. Statistics (recommended for students with little statistical background)
- 381A. Sociological Methodology I: Computer Assisted Data Analysis
- 382. Sociological Methodology II: The General Linear Model
- 383. Sociological Methodology III: Advanced Models for Discrete Outcomes
- 388. Advanced Models for Analysis of Tabular Arrays or 389. Mixed Method Research Design

THEORY

- 370A. Sociological Theory: Social Structure, Inequality, and Conflict or 370B. Sociological Theory: Social Interaction and Group Processes
- 372. Theoretical Analysis and Design

Students must complete additional course work sufficient to prepare them to write their second-year paper.

PH.D. MINOR

Sociology offers a minor for currently enrolled doctoral students in other Stanford departments and schools. Students must complete a minimum of 30 graduate-level units with a grade point average (GPA) of 3.0 (B) or better. All 30 units for the minor are to be in courses taught by Sociology faculty with the following exception: 5 units may be taken in a statistics or methods course taught in another department. All units must be taken for a letter grade. Research and directed reading courses are acceptable, but are limited to 15 units and must be approved in advance. The program must be approved by a Sociology adviser and filed with the Sociology student services office. While there is not a formal application process, candidates must submit a short statement of purpose (2 pages), and a completed Application for Ph.D Minor, available from the Office of the University Registrar) to the Sociology student services office. The Application for Ph.D. Minor must have all Sociology or other courses to be applied to the minor listed including course number, units, and final grades.

JOINT PROGRAMS WITH THE SCHOOL OF LAW

The School of Law and Department of Sociology conduct joint programs leading to either a combined J.D. degree with an M.A. degree in Sociology or to a combined J.D. degree with a Ph.D. in Sociology.

Law students interested in pursuing an M.A. in Sociology apply for admission to the Department of Sociology during the first year of Law school. Once admitted to the Department of Sociology, the student must complete standard departmental master's degree requirements as specified in this bulletin. Applications for the joint J.D./M.A. degree program must be approved by both the department and the Law school. Faculty advisers from each program participate in the planning and supervising of the student's academic program.

The J.D./Ph.D. degree program is designed for students who wish to prepare themselves for research or teaching careers in areas relating to both legal and sociological concerns. Students interested in the joint degree program must be admitted to both the School of Law and the Department of Sociology. Interest in the joint degree program must be noted on each of the student's applications. Alternatively, an enrolled student in either the Law School or the Sociology department may apply to the other program, preferably during their first year of study.

Upon admission, students are assigned a joint program faculty adviser who assists the student in planning an appropriate program and ensuring that all requirements for both degrees are satisfied. The faculty adviser serves in this capacity during the student's course of study regardless of whether the student is enrolled in the School of Law or the Sociology department.

J.D./Ph.D. students may elect to begin their course of study in either the School of Law or the Department of Sociology. Students must be enrolled full-time in the Law school for the first year of Law school, and must enroll full time in the graduate school for the first year of the sociology program. After that time, enrollment may be in the graduate school or the Law school, and students may choose courses from either program regardless of where enrolled. Students must satisfy the requirements for both the J.D. and the Ph.D. degrees. Up to 54 semester (81 quarter) hours of approved courses may be counted toward both degrees, but no more than 24 semester (36 quarter) hours of courses that originate outside the Law school may count toward the Law degree. To the extent that courses under this joint degree program originate outside of the Law school but count toward the Law degree, the Law school credits permitted under Section 17(1) of the Law School Regulations for cross-registration in other schools or departments of Stanford University are reduced on a unit-per-unit basis, but not below zero. Students must complete the equivalent of 183 quarter units to complete both degrees. Tuition and financial aid arrangements normally are through the school in which the student is currently enrolled.

For more information, see the Sociology web site at <http://sociology.stanford.edu>, and the Law School web site on the J.D./Ph.D. at <http://www.law.stanford.edu/program/degrees/joint/sociology>.

COURSES

Courses are open to all students without prerequisites, unless indicated. Courses numbered below 100 are introductory courses intended for undergraduates. Courses numbered 100-202 are undergraduate-level courses. Courses numbered 203-299 are open to advanced undergraduates and graduate students. Courses numbered 300 and above are normally offered to matriculated doctoral students only.

OPEN TO ALL STUDENTS

INTRODUCTORY

SOC 1. Introduction to Sociology—Concepts, methods, and theoretical orientations. Sociological imagination illustrated by recent theory and research. Possible topics: the persistence of class cleavages; ethnic, racial, and gender inequalities; religious beliefs and the process of secularization; functions and dysfunctions of educational institutions; criminology and social deviance; social movements and social protest; production and reproduction of culture; rise of organizational society. GER:DB-SocSci
5 units, Aut (McAdam, D), Spr (Snipp, C)

SOC 15N. The Transformation of Socialist Societies—Stanford Introductory Seminar. Preference to freshmen. The impact of societal organization on the lives of ordinary people in socialist societies and in the new societies arising through the processes of political, economic, and social transformation. Do the concepts of democratization and marketization suffice to characterize ongoing changes? Enrollment limited to 16. GER:DB-SocSci, EC-GlobalCom
3 units, Win (Tuma, N)

SOC 22N. The Roots of Social Protest—Stanford Introductory Seminar. Preference to freshmen. The conditions under which social protest occurs and the emergence, success, and viability of contemporary social movements. Examples include women's civil rights, ecology, and antiwar and anti-globalization movements in the U.S. and elsewhere. Sociological theories to explain the timing, location, and causes of mobilization; how researchers evaluate these theories. Comparison of tactics, trajectories, and outcomes. Enrollment limited to 16. GER:DB-SocSci, EC-GlobalCul
3 units, Aut (Olzak, S)

SOC 45Q. Understanding Race and Ethnicity in American Society—Stanford Introductory Seminar. Preference to sophomores. A brief historical overview of race in America, race and violence, race and socioeconomic wellbeing, and the future of race relations in America. Enrollment limited to 16. GER:DB-SocSci

5 units, Aut (Snipp, C)

SOC 46N. Race, Ethnic, and National Identities: Imagined Communities—Stanford Introductory Seminar. Preference to freshmen. How new identities are created and legitimated. What does it mean to try on a different identity? National groups and ethnic groups are so large that one individual can know only an infinitesimal fraction of other group members. What explains the seeming coherence of groups? If identities are a product of the imagination, why are people willing to fight and die for them? Enrollment limited to 16. GER:DB-SocSci

3 units, Spr (Rosenfeld, M)

SOC 103A. Tutoring: Seeing a Child through Literacy—(Same as EDUC 103A.) For undergraduates to engage in the real world of teaching; required of all STEP elementary credential candidates. Focus is on teaching struggling young readers. The role of instruction in literacy development; supervised tutoring of a child; seeing the worlds of school, print, and learning through the eyes of a child. Ravenswood Reads tutors encouraged to enroll.

RESEARCH METHODS

SOC 180A. Foundations of Social Research—(Graduate students register for 280A.) Formulating a research question, developing hypotheses, probability and non-probability sampling, developing valid and reliable measures, qualitative and quantitative data, choosing research design and data collection methods, challenges of making causal inference, and criteria for evaluating the quality of social research. How social research is done, rather than application of different methods. Limited enrollment; preference to Sociology and Urban Studies majors, and Sociology coterms.

5 units, Aut (Sorensen, A)

SOC 180B. Evaluation of Evidence—(Graduate students register for 280B.) Methods for analyzing and evaluating data in sociological research: comparative historical methods, ethnographic observation, quantitative analysis of survey data, experimentation, and simulation. Emphasis is on application of these methods through small data analysis projects. Limited enrollment; preference to Sociology and Urban Studies majors, and Sociology coterms.

5 units, Win (Hillmann, H)

SOC 181B. Sociological Methods: Statistics—(Graduate students register for 281B.) Statistical methods of relevance to sociology: contingency tables, correlation, and regression. GER:DB-Math

5 units, not given this year

SOC 200. Junior/Senior Seminar for Majors—Capstone course in which sociological problems are framed, linked to theories, and answers pursued through research designs. WIM

5 units, Aut (McDermott, M), Spr (Gerbasi, A)

SOC 201. Preparation for Senior Project—(Same as URBANST 201.) First part of capstone experience for Urban Studies majors pursuing an internship-based research project or honors thesis. Individually arranged internship beginning in Winter Quarter, 8 hours per week. Prospective students must consult with internship coordinator early in Autumn Quarter to plan placement. Reflections and assignments culminate in a research proposal, which may be submitted for funding. Internship normally continues in Spring Quarter; research proposed in the final assignment may be carried out in Spring or Summer Quarter; consent required for Autumn Quarter research. Corequisite: URBANST 201A.

5 units, Win (Kahan, M)

SOC 202. Preparation for Honors Thesis—(Same as URBANST202.) Primarily for juniors in Sociology or Urban Studies; sophomores who plan to be off-campus Winter Quarter of their junior year may register with consent of instructor. First part of capstone experience for Urban Studies majors pursuing a non-internship based research project or honors thesis. Urban Studies majors enrolling in 202 rather than 201 must arrange an alternative way of fulfilling the internship requirement. Students write a research prospectus and grant proposal, which may be submitted for funding. Research proposal in final assignment may be carried out in Spring or Summer Quarter; consent required for Autumn Quarter research.

5 units, Win (McAdam, D)

INDIVIDUALIZED LEARNING EXPERIENCES, PRIMARILY FOR UNDERGRADUATE MAJORS

SOC 190. Undergraduate Individual Study—Prior arrangement required.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr, Sum (Staff)

SOC 191. Undergraduate Directed Research—Project of student's choice under supervision of a faculty member. Prior arrangement required.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr, Sum (Staff)

SOC 192. Undergraduate Research Apprenticeship—Work in an apprentice-like relationship with faculty on an on-going research project. Prior arrangement required.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr, Sum (Staff)

SOC 193. Undergraduate Teaching Apprenticeship—Prior arrangement required.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr, Sum (Staff)

SOC 196. Senior Thesis—Work on an honors thesis project under faculty supervision (see description of honors program). Must be arranged early in the year of graduation or before.

1-15 units, Aut, Win, Spr, Sum (Staff)

FOR ADVANCED/COTERMINAL UNDERGRADUATES AND MASTER'S STUDENTS

SOCIAL MOVEMENTS, COMPARATIVE POLITICS, AND SOCIAL CHANGE

SOC 203. The Transnational Workplace—(Graduate students register for 303.) Experiential one-month workshop: October 24-November 24. Challenges posed by multicultural, transnational work environments. The structure of the multinational modern firm, transnational human resource practices, management profiles, and cultural intelligence. Students cooperate with graduate students in other universities worldwide to create virtual work teams and compose the final assignment for the seminar.

PRIMARYLY FOR DOCTORAL STUDENTS

300-level courses are limited to matriculated doctoral students; other students require consent of instructor.

GENERAL

SOC 300. Workshop: Teaching Development—For first-year Sociology doctoral students only. The principles for becoming an effective instructor, adviser, and mentor to undergraduates. Topics: ethics, course organization and syllabus development, test construction and grading, conflict resolution, common classroom problems, and University policies related to matters such as sexual harassment. Technologies and other topics related to making effective presentations, and campus resources to improve classroom performance. Roundtable discussions with faculty and advanced graduate students known for teaching excellence. Students may be asked to give a demonstration lecture.

2 units, Spr (Simmons, A)

SOC 305. Graduate Proseminar—For first-year Sociology doctoral students only. Introduction and orientation to the field of Sociology.

1 unit, Aut (Grusky, D)

PH.D. WORKSHOPS

SOC 311A,B,C. Workshop: Comparative Studies of Educational and Political Systems—(Same as EDUC 387A,B,C.) Analysis of quantitative and longitudinal data on national educational systems and political structures. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: consent of instructor. (SSPEP/ICE)

1-5 units, A: Aut, B: Win, C: Spr (Ramirez, F; Meyer, J)

SOC 312. Workshop: Political Sociology, Social Movements, and Collective Action—Faculty and student presentations of ongoing research on topics including: social movement and organizations, and the relationship between them; democracy movements; legislative and policy outcomes; and collective action tactics, strategies, and trajectories. May be repeated for credit.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Walder, A; Olzak, S; McAdam, D; Shin, G; Hillmann, H)

SOC 321. Workshop: Social Psychology and Social Structure—(Same as EDUC 317.) Current theories and research agendas, recent publications, and presentations of ongoing research by faculty and students. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Cook, K; McFarland, D; Ridgeway, C)

SOC 338. Workshop: Sociology of Law—(Same as LAW 581.) Required for joint degree J.D./Ph.D. students in Sociology in the first three years of program; open to Ph.D. students in Sociology and related disciplines. Empirical, sociological study of law and legal institutions. Topics such as the relation of law to inequality and stratification, social movements, organizations and institutions, political sociology and state development, and the social construction of disputes and dispute resolution processes. Research presentations. Career development issues. May be repeated for credit.

1-5 units, Win (Dauber, M; Friedman, L; Sandefur, R)

SOC 341. Workshop: Inequality—Causes, consequences, and structure of inequality; how inequality results from and shapes social classes, occupations, professions, and other aspects of the economy. Research presentations by students, faculty, and guest speakers. Discussion of controversies, theories, and recent writings. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: doctoral student status.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Grusky, D; Granovetter, M; Sandefur, R)

SOC 346. Workshop: Ethnography—Restricted to doctoral students. Student research employing ethnographic methods. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (McDermott, M)

SOC 368. Workshop: China Social Science—(Same as POLISCI 348R.) For Ph.D. students in the social sciences and history. Research on contemporary society and politics in the People's Republic of China. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Walder, A; Zhou, X; Oi, J)

SOC 374A,B,C. Research Workshop: Philanthropy and Civil Society—(For Ph.D. students; see 274A,B,C; same as EDUC 374A,B,C.)

A: 1-3 units, Aut (Powell, W)

B: 2-3 units, Win (Powell, W)

C: 2-3 units, Spr (Powell, W)

SOCIAL MOVEMENTS, COMPARATIVE POLITICS, AND SOCIAL CHANGE

SOC 257. Causal Inference in Quantitative Educational and Social Science Research—(Same as EDUC 257C.) Quantitative methods to make causal inferences in the absence of randomized experiment including the use of natural and quasi-experiments, instrumental variables, regression discontinuity, matching estimators, longitudinal methods, fixed effects estimators, and selection modeling. Assumptions implicit in these approaches, and appropriateness in research situations. Students develop research proposals relying on these methods. Prerequisites: exposure to quantitative research methods; multivariate regression.

3-5 units, Spr (Reardon, S)

SOC 303. The Transnational Workplace—(For graduate students; see 203.)

5 units, Aut (Drori, G)

SOC 309. Nations and Nationalism—The nation as a form of collective identity in the modern era. Major works in the study of nations and nationalism from comparative perspectives with focus on Europe and E. Asia.

4-5 units, not given this year

SOC 310. Political Sociology—Theory and research on the relationship between social structure and politics. Social foundations of political order, the generation and transformation of ideologies and political identities, social origins of revolutionary movements, and social consequences of political revolution. Prerequisite: doctoral student.

4-5 units, not given this year

SOC 311A,B,C. Workshop: Comparative Studies of Educational and Political Systems—For description, see "Ph.D. Workshops" subsection above.

1-5 units, A: Aut, B: Win, C: Spr (Ramirez, F; Meyer, J)

SOC 312. Workshop: Political Sociology, Social Movements, and Collective Action—For description, see “Ph.D. Workshops” subsection above.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Walder, A; Olzak, S; McAdam, D; Shin, G; Hillmann, H)

SOC 316. Historical and Comparative Sociology—Theory and research on macro-historical changes of sociological significance such as the rise of capitalism, the causes and consequences of revolutions, and the formation of the modern nation state and global world system. Methodological issues in historical and comparative sociology.

3-5 units, Win (Shin, G)

SOC 317B. Chinese Society and Politics—(For Ph.D. students; see 217B.)

3-5 units, Spr (Walder, A)

SOC 318. Social Movements and Collective Action—Topics: causes, dynamics, and outcomes of social movements; organizational dimensions of collective action; and causes and consequences of individual activism.

3-5 units, Win (McAdam, D)

SOC 338. Workshop: Sociology of Law—For description, see “Ph.D. Workshops” subsection above.

1-5 units, Win (Dauber, M; Friedman, L; Sandefur, R)

SOC 368. Workshop: China Social Science—For description, see “Ph.D. Workshops” subsection above.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Walder, A; Zhou, X; Oi, J)

SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY AND INTERPERSONAL PROCESSES

SOC 320. Foundations of Social Psychology—Major theoretical perspectives, and their assumptions and problems, in interpersonal processes and social psychology. Techniques of investigation and methodological issues. Perspectives: symbolic interaction, social structure and personality, and cognitive and group processes.

3-5 units, Aut (Ridgeway, C)

SOC 321. Workshop: Social Psychology and Social Structure—For description, see “Ph.D. Workshops” subsection above.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Cook, K; McFarland, D; Ridgeway, C)

SOC 322. Social Interaction, Social Structure, and Social Exchange—Current theory and research on topics such as social cognition and identity, group processes, bargaining and negotiation, social justice, social dilemmas and exchange, and networks and collective action. The social exchange approach.

4-5 units, not given this year

SOC 323. Sociology of the Family—Sociological research on changing family forms. Topics include courtship, marriage, fertility, divorce, conflict, relationship skills and satisfaction, gender patterns, power relations within the family, and class and race differences in patterns.

3-5 units, not given this year

SOC 324. Social Networks—How the study of social networks contributes to sociological research. Application of core concepts to patterns of relations among actors, including connectivity and clusters, duality of categories and networks, centrality and power, balance and transitivity, structural equivalence, and blockmodels. Friendship and kinship networks, diffusion of ideas and infectious diseases, brokerage in markets and organizations, and patronage and political influence in historical contexts.

3-5 units, Win (Hillmann, H)

SOC 327. Frontiers of Social Psychology—Advanced topics, current developments, theory, and empirical research. Possible topics include social identity processes, status beliefs and processes, social exchange, affect and social cohesion, legitimacy, social difference and inequality, norms, and social dilemmas.

4-5 units, not given this year

SOC 342B. Gender and Social Structure—The role of gender in structuring contemporary life. Social forces affecting gender at the psychological, interactional, and structural levels. Gender inequality in labor markets, education, the household, and other institutions. Theories and research literature.

3-5 units, Spr (England, P)

SOC 361. Social Psychology of Organizations—(Same as OB 671.) Social psychological theories and research relevant to organizational behavior. Current research topics; theories to micro-organizational behavior. Topics include models of attribution, choice and decision making, intergroup behavior, stereotyping, and social influence. Prerequisites: Ph.D student; graduate-level social psychology course.

4 units, Win (Lowery, B)

SOC 364. Perspectives on the Social Psychology of Organizations—(Same as OB 673.) Social psychological and sociological research. How theories and methods change as levels of analysis change; focus is on the meso (intermediate between micro and macro) level of analysis. Topics vary from year to year, but may include: organizational learning or routines; power; emotions in organizations; diversity and demography; organizational identity and legitimacy; culture; contagion and diffusion. Theory development processes. Prerequisite: Ph.D student.

4 units, Win (Flynn, F)

SOCIAL STRATIFICATION AND INEQUALITY

SOC 340. Social Stratification—Classical and contemporary approaches to the unequal distribution of goods, status, and power. Modern analytic models of the effects of social contact, cultural capital, family background, and luck in producing inequality. The role of education in stratification. The causes and consequences of inequality by race and gender. The structure of social classes, status groupings, and prestige hierarchies in various societies. Labor markets and their role in inequality. The implications of inequality for individual lifestyles. The rise of the new class, the underclass, and other emerging forms of stratification. Prerequisite: Ph.D. student or consent of instructor.

3-5 units, not given this year

SOC 341. Workshop: Inequality—For description, see “Ph.D. Workshops” subsection above.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Grusky, D; Granovetter, M; Sandefur, R)

ORGANIZATIONS, BUSINESS, AND THE ECONOMY

SOC 314. Economic Sociology—Classical and contemporary literature covering the sociological approach to markets and the economy, and comparing it to other disciplines. Topics: consumption, labor, professions, industrial organization, and the varieties of capitalism; historical and comparative perspectives on market and non-market provision of goods and services, and on transitions among economic systems. The relative impact of culture, institutions, norms, social networks, technology, and material conditions. Prerequisite: doctoral student status or consent of instructor.

3-5 units, Aut (Granovetter, M)

SOC 314A. Social Norms and Corruption in the Economy—Seminar. Comparison of the impact on economic activity of self-interest to that of actors’ views of what is socially and morally appropriate. The place of social norms in the economy; their origin, nature, content, enforcement, and consequences. Determinants of corruption, a pervasive phenomenon usually explained by incentives but where norms also play an important role. Prerequisite: doctoral student status or consent of instructor.

3-5 units, offered occasionally

SOC 318A. Historical Methods—Methodological problems in social science history and their solutions. Discrete methodological themes through key works in historical sociology, economic history, and related fields. Topics include path dependence, periodization, the nature of historical events and event sequences, narrative explanation and general theory, microhistory, uses of prosopography and network analysis in historical research, spatial and temporal effects, and the idea of the longue durée.

3-5 units, not given this year

SOC 341. Workshop: Inequality—For description, see “Ph.D. Workshops” subsection above.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Grusky, D; Granovetter, M; Sandefur, R)

SOC 361. Social Psychology of Organizations—For description, see “Social Psychology and Interpersonal Processes” subsection above.

4 units, Win (Lowery, B)

SOC 362. Organization and Environment—(For graduate students; see 262; same as OB 672.)

4 units, Aut (Carroll, G)

SOC 363. Social and Political Processes in Organizations—(Same as OB 676.) Cognition, attitudes, and behavior in organizations. Social psychological and sociological research at the meso, or intermediate between micro and macro, level of analysis. Topics vary from year to year, but may include: organizational learning and decision making; power and conflict; emotions in organizations; mobility and stratification; gender inequality and discrimination; networks; organizational justice and legitimacy; and cultural perspectives on organizations. Prerequisite: Ph.D student.

4 units, Win (Sorensen, J)

SOC 363A. Seminar on Organizational Theory—(Same as EDUC 375A.) The social science literature on organizations assessed through consideration of the major theoretical traditions and lines of research predominant in the field.

5 units, Aut (Powell, W)

SOC 363B. Seminar on Organizations: Institutional Analysis—(Same as EDUC 375B.) Seminar. Key lines of inquiry on organizational change, emphasizing network, institutional, and evolutionary arguments.

3-5 units, Spr (Powell, W)

SOC 364. Perspectives on the Social Psychology of Organizations—For description, see “Social Psychology and Interpersonal Processes” subsection above.

4 units, Win (Flynn, F)

SOC 366. Organizational Behavior and Analysis—(Same as EDUC 288.) Principles of organizational behavior and analysis; theories of group and individual behavior; organizational culture; and applications to school organization and design. Case studies.

4 units, Aut (Drori, G)

SOC 366A. Organizational Ecology—(Same as OB 601.) Theoretical and methodological. Emphasis is on dynamics at the interface between organizational populations and their audiences.

4 units, Win (Hannan, M)

SOC 367. Institutional Analysis of Organizations—Reading and research on the nature, origins, and effects of the modern institutional system. Emphasis is on the effects of institutional systems on organizational structure.

3-5 units, Aut (Scott, W)

SOC 369. Network Analysis—(Same as EDUC 316.) The educational applications of social network analysis. Introduction to social network theory, methods, and research applications in sociology. Network concepts of interactionist (balance, cohesion, centrality) and structuralist (structural equivalence, roles, duality) traditions are defined and applied to topics in small groups, social movements, organizations, communities. Applications to data on schools and classrooms. (SSPEP)

4-5 units, Aut (McFarland, D)

SOC 376. Perspectives on Organization and Environment—(Same as OB 674.) Workshop. Topics may include ideas and theories of networks, learning, competition, status, and decision making.

4 units, Win (Rao, H)

SOC 377. Comparing Institutional Forms: Public, Private, and Nonprofit—(Same as 277, EDUC 377, GSBGEN 346; ; see 277.)

4 units, Spr (Powell, W)

RACE AND ETHNIC RELATIONS

SOC 342A. Race and Ethnic Relations—Presentations of current work by faculty, students, and guest speakers. Recent publications and contemporary issues. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

1-5 units, not given this year

SOC 345. Seminar in Comparative Race and Ethnic Relations—Restricted to Ph.D. students. Factors that create, maintain, and diminish the salience of race and ethnic boundaries. Theoretical debates about the emergence, persistence, and change in racial and ethnic boundaries, nationalism and sovereignty, and mobilization. Empirical evidence on race and ethnic tensions, conflict, and warfare. Relationships among democracy, immigration, and diversity.

3-5 units, not given this year

SOC 346. Workshop: Ethnography—For description, see “Ph.D. Workshops” subsection above.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (McDermott, M)

SOCIOLOGICAL THEORY

SOC 370A. Sociological Theory: Social Structure, Inequality, and Conflict—Restricted to doctoral students. The traditions of structural analysis derived from the work of Marx, Weber, and related thinkers. Antecedent ideas in foundational works are traced through contemporary theory and research on political conflict, social stratification, formal organization, and the economy.

3-5 units, Aut (Olzak, S)

SOC 370B. Social Interaction and Group Process—Theoretical strategies for the study of interaction, group, and network processes, including rational choice and exchange theory, the theory of action, symbolic interactionism, formal sociology, and social phenomenology. Antecedent ideas in foundational works and contemporary programs of theoretical research.

3-5 units, Spr (Zelditch, M), alternate years, not given next year

SOC 372. Theoretical Analysis and Design—Theoretical analysis and the logical elements of design, including the systematic analysis of the logical structure of arguments, the relationship of arguments to more encompassing theoretical or metatheoretical assumptions, the derivation of logical implications from arguments, assessments of theoretically significant problems or gaps in knowledge.

3-5 units, Aut (Zelditch, M)

RESEARCH METHODS

SOC 374A,B,C. Research Workshop: Philanthropy and Civil Society—(For Ph.D. students; see 274A,B,C; same as EDUC 374A,B,C.)

A: 1-3 units, Aut (Powell, W)

B: 2-3 units, Win (Powell, W)

C: 2-3 units, Spr (Powell, W)

SOC 380. Qualitative Methods—Priority to Sociology doctoral students. Emphasis is on observational and interview-based research. Limited enrollment.

3-5 units, Win (McDermott, M)

SOC 381. Sociological Methodology I: Introduction—Preference to Sociology students. Basic math and statistics. Types of variables, how to recode and transform variables, and how to manage different types of data sets. Introduction to statistical packages and programming.

2-3 units, Aut (Aven, B; McClintock, E)

SOC 382. Sociological Methodology II: The General Linear Model—Preference to Sociology students. The general linear model for discrete and continuous variables. Introduction to model selection, the principles of estimation, assessment of fit, and modeling diagnostics. Limited enrollment. Prerequisites: 281A,B, or equivalents.

3-6 units, Win (Tuma, N)

SOC 383. Sociological Methodology III: Advanced Models for Discrete Outcomes—Required for Ph.D. in Sociology; preference to Sociology students. The rationale for and interpretation of static and dynamic models for the analysis of discrete variables. Prerequisites: 281A,B and 382, or equivalents.

4-5 units, Spr (Zhou, X)

SOC 384. New Models and Methods in the Social Sciences—Preference to Sociology doctoral students. Two-week intensive course. Emphasis is on applications. Topics may include network models, multilevel models, latent class models, mixed methods, new qualitative methods, growth models, geostatistical tools, survey-based experiments, new methods for estimating causal effects, web-based surveys, advanced discrete choice models, and diffusion models.

2-5 units, Sum (Grusky, D) alternate years, not given next year

SOC 385A,B. Research Practicum—Workshop on research methods. Ongoing student research, methodological problems, and possible solutions.

1-2 units, A: Win, B: Spr (Zhou, X)

SOC 388. Log-Linear Models—Analysis of categorical data with log-linear and negative binomial models. Measures of fit and hypothesis testing.

3-5 units, Aut (Rosenfeld, M)

SOC 389. Mixed Method Research Design and Analysis—Research designs that incorporate qualitative and quantitative analyses in a single project. The tension between thinking case-wise and variable-wise; how the focus on relationships between variables that is the hallmark of the quantitative approach can be brought into qualitative work.

3-5 units, not given this year

GRADUATE INDIVIDUAL STUDY

SOC 390. Graduate Individual Study—May be repeated for credit.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr, Sum (Staff)

SOC 391. Graduate Directed Research—May be repeated for credit.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr, Sum (Staff)

SOC 392. Research Apprenticeship—May be repeated for credit.

1-5 units, Aut, Win, Spr, Sum (Staff)

SOC 393. Teaching Apprenticeship

1-15 units, Aut, Win, Spr, Sum (Staff)

SOC 395. Research Internship—Graduate students integrate internship work into their academic program. Students register in the quarter following internship work and complete a research report outlining their work activity, problems investigated, key results, and follow-up projects they expect to perform. Meets requirements for Curricular Practical Training for students on F-1 visas. Work completed cannot be counted toward the departmental research assistantship requirement.

1-10 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Staff)

COGNATE COURSES

See respective department listings for course descriptions and General Education Requirements (GER) information. See degree requirements above or the Sociology student services office for applicability of these courses to a major or minor program.

COMM 169/269. Computers and Interfaces

4-5 units, Win (Nass, C)

EDUC 378X. Seminar on Social Change Processes and Organizations

3-4 units, Spr (Meyerson, D)

FEMST 260/360. Seminar in Women's Health: Women and Disabilities

5 units, Spr (Krieger, S)

HUMBIO 120A. American Health Policy

3 units, Spr (Heller, G)

LAW 229. Race and the Law

3 units, Win (Banks, R)

POLISCI 147. Comparative Democratic Development

5 units, Win (Diamond, L)

POLISCI 148/348. Chinese Politics: The Transformation and the Era of Reform

5 units, Spr (Oi, J)

PSYCH 10. Introduction to Statistical Methods: Precalculus—(Same as STATS 60/160.)

5 units, Aut (Thomas, E), Win (Walther, G), Spr, Sum (Staff)

PUBLPOL 168. Global Organizations: Managing Diversity

5 units, Win (Meyersson Milgrom, E)

STATS 60. Introduction to Statistical Methods: Precalculus

5 units, Aut (Thomas, E), Win (Walther, G), Spr, Sum (Staff)

URBANST 132. Concepts and Analytic Skills for the Social Sector

4 units, Win (Kieschnick, M)

OVERSEAS STUDIES

Sociology courses that are taught overseas are listed on the Bing Overseas Studies website <http://osp.stanford.edu> or in the "Overseas Studies" section of this bulletin. Students interested in applying OSP courses to their degree may do so with prior approval. Contact the Sociology student services office for further information.
