Courses given in Law have the subject code LAW or LAWGEN. For a complete list of subject codes, see Appendix.

The School of Law, established 1893, provides a legal education for students who are fitted by their maturity and academic training to pursue professional study under University methods of instruction. The curriculum leading to the first professional degree in law, the Doctor of Jurisprudence (J.D.), constitutes an adequate preparation for the practice of law in any English-speaking jurisdiction. Graduate work leading to the degrees of Master of Laws (L.L.M.), Master of the Science of Law (J.S.M.), and Doctor of the Science of Law (J.S.D.), and a non-professional degree, Master of Legal Studies (M.L.S.), is also offered. For the full curriculum, see <http://lawreg.stanford.edu>. Stanford Law School offers joint or dual degree options in combination with other Stanford graduate departments and universities across the country; see the “Joint and Dual Degree” section below.

The school is on a two-term academic calendar: Autumn term classes begin for first-year students August 27, 2007 and on September 4, 2007 for all other students; the term ends on December 5, 2007. Winter term classes begin on January 8, 2008, and the term ends on April 23, 2008. In addition, the Law School offers classes on the quarter schedule. Law classes taught on the Autumn Quarter schedule begin September 24, 2007 and end on December 7, 2007; Law classes taught on the Winter Quarter schedule begin January 8, 2008 and end on March 14, 2008.

For further information about admission, programs, curriculum, and faculty, see <http://www.law.stanford.edu>.

JOINT AND DUAL DEGREES

Formal admission to both the Law School and to the other cooperating school or department in accordance with the established admission standards of each school or department is required. In addition to the formal joint degree programs offered, the school considers requests for a dual program on an individually designed basis. For additional information on Law School joint or dual degree programs, see <http://www.law.stanford.edu/program/degrees>. See relevant web sites or department sections of this bulletin for degree requirements.

COURSES

Courses listed in this section are open to Stanford non-Law students with consent of instructor. Each course indicates whether it is on the quarter or semester schedule. Non-Law students who register for courses with a LAW subject code are awarded quarter units upon completion of the course; semester unit values are converted into quarter unit values for non-Law students at the time of enrollment. (Courses with non-LAW subject codes that are crosslisted with LAW courses have quarter-based units, and no conversion is performed for undergraduates or graduate students. See the respective department's section of this bulletin for such unit values.)

Students intending to enroll in any course with a LAW subject code must consult the School of Law Registrar's Office in the Stanford Law School Administration Building, room 100, or see <http://www.law.stanford.edu/school/offices/registrar>.

For additional detailed course information, see the Office of the Law School web site at <http://www.law.stanford.edu/program/courses>.
